

Successful academic mobility of our students at the Hugo Kollontai Krakow Agrarian University, Republic of Poland

In the period from October 25, 2023 to February 25, 2024, a group of students from the Faculty of Land Management, Architecture and Design took part in the academic mobility program at the Krakow Agrarian University. It was a unique experience that had a significant impact on their academic and personal development.

Students of the educational program – «Geodesy»:

- Zhunusova Ayyana - 04-074- 21- 13gr;
- Kaykenov Rauan - 04-074-22-09 gr.;
- Muzhubaev Ayan - 04-074-22-09 gr.;

Student of the «Land Management» educational program:

- Kunafiya Kalibek - 04-075-22-04 gr.

Student of the «Cadastre» educational program:

- Shaimurat Kazhyayan - 04-075-22-07 gr. went to study in order to study subjects their educational programs, gaining experience from foreign scientists, teachers and immersion in a new culture.

To participate in the academic mobility program, our students showed good academic performance at the university and a high level of foreign language proficiency.

During their stay, they attended lectures, seminars, practical classes and laboratory work, which allowed them to expand their knowledge and skills.

One of the key points of the program was the participation of students in research projects, where they were able to apply their knowledge in practice and make their contribution to the development of science.

An important aspect of the program was also the cultural enrichment of students. They went on excursions to the sights of Krakow, got acquainted with the local cuisine and traditions, which helped them better understand and appreciate the cultural heritage of another country.

Upon returning home, the children shared their impressions and knowledge with fellow students and teachers. They also expressed their gratitude for the opportunity to participate in the academic mobility program and for the support they received during their stay from the university administration and the Ministry of Education and Science of the Republic of Kazakhstan, for the grant provided.

This experience not only helped students expand their knowledge and skills, but also inspired them to further develop and reach new heights in their academic and professional careers.

Academic mobility at the Krakow Agrarian University has become an unforgettable period for them, which will leave a bright mark on their lives.

